

PROMINENT LOCAL BUSINESS MAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Gay Hull, prominent merchant of Redwood City and a resident of San Carlos, passed away suddenly at the Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo Thursday evening. He was in his usual health Thursday morning, but about noon time he was overtaken by a stroke of apoplexy and was hurried to the hospital for treatment. He died at 5:30 the same afternoon. The deceased was a partner in the firm of Hull Bros. Inc., local hardware dealers, in this line he had been engaged since 1904, succeeding N. B. Graves who owned the store up to that time.

Hull was a noted marksman and a great hunter. He was an authority on game laws and hunting traditions, and an enthusiastic sportsman. He was a prominent member of the Native Sons of the Golden West and also of the B. P. O. E. He was born in San Carlos in 1869, and has lived his entire life in the home where he was born. He is survived by a brother, Asa Hull, who is associated with him in the hardware business and one sister, Mrs. R. Shields of San Carlos.

The funeral will be conducted by the James Crowe Undertaking Company this morning at ten o'clock. A requiem mass will be celebrated in the Mt. Carmel Catholic church at that time and will be followed by interment in St. John's cemetery in San Mateo.

WOODRUFF INN BURNED TO ASHES MONDAY

Noticing a thin column of smoke issuing from a cable of the Woodruff Inn, famous tavern, near La Honda, Charles Wright, proprietor of the inn, last Monday hurried to the attic, only to find that the flames were already developing the upper portion of the building. Aided by some of the guests at the popular resort, Wright endeavored to arrest the fast-spreading flames by means of small chemical extinguishers. An alarm was telephoned to Redwood City, and to the neighboring camps, and was responded to by a large party of fire fighters from the La Honda district, who aided in the saving of the furnishings of the inn and in keeping the flames in check as much as possible until the Redwood firemen arrived. Lack of water, however, so handicapped the fire fighters that the inn was reduced to ashes, and the brush near it ignited. The efforts of the fire crew however, resulted in the saving of the famous redwood grove of La Honda, and the fire was extinguished before it could do any serious damage beyond the loss of the inn.

AUTOMATIC SWITCHING SYSTEM FOR THIS CITY AUTHORIZED BY STATE RAILROAD BOARD.

Installation of an automatic switching system at Redwood City, to be installed at a cost of $40,000 by the Southern Pacific Company, will soon be under way following the announcement from San Francisco yesterday that permission to change the present switching arrangements over the Dumbarton line, has been granted by the State Railroad Commission.

Following complaints against the practice of holding long trains of freight cars in the Redwood City switching yards while traffic, especially at the southern entrance to the city was held up, trustees of this city several months ago reached an agreement with officials of the Southern Pacific for the closing of certain unimportant crossings, and the installation of the automatic system.

The new plan will result in relieving considerable congestion of traffic, especially over the main artery of travel into this city from the south.

Before the class was admitted to citizenship, Rev. Clayton L. Peck of the local Methodist church made an address in which he outlined to the prospective Americans the more important duties of citizenship, told them of the seriousness of the step they were taking and warned them that if they were not willing to accept the duties as well as the privileges of American citizenship, they had better return to the land of their nativity. The candidates for citizenship were also admonished by Mr. Peck upon the seriousness of voting intelligently, and told that only by voting for the best man could the country be improved, the man, and not the party should decide their vote, he said. The examinations were conducted by naturalization officer, Chester A. Ball.

CAR WRECKED MAN KILLED IN BEEFORD ACCIDENT

Two men were hurt, one fatally when a Southern Pacific train struck a car driven by G. E. Sheffield, of the highway construction gang Thursday night. The driver of the car was killed, and Bert Robinson, who was riding with him at the time was seriously injured. Robinson was taken to the Mills Memorial hospital, where his injuries were attended to.

AN INTERNATIONAL FIGURE

Senator Hiram W. Johnson has returned from Europe. The senator has been studying conditions in Germany and France and England and he has already let the world know that for him America comes first in the settlement of any dispute. Senator Johnson is a great dynamo of patriotism and enthusiasm. He is a fighter and a constructive statesman. Most of the progressive legislation of California was enacted under his leadership. The senator is able to put over many things that less fearless men would never accomplish. We will welcome him back to California, and we know that he will always be fighting for what he thinks is right and just.

OLD TIMERS' DANCE IS MARKED SUCCESS

The old fashioned dance given by the Old Timers' Club in Foresters' hall was a great success from every view point, and those responsible for the affair should feel encouraged to hold similar dances regularly. A good crowd attended, and a fine time was enjoyed by all those present. Music was furnished by the famous pair of old-time melody producers, the Heldenaber orchestra. It is hoped that the Old Timers' Club will hold an old fashioned dance each Wednesday evening.

DEATH OF PRESIDENT HARDING SEVERE SHOCK TO NATION

FUNERAL CORTEGE PASSES REDWOOD CITY ON ITS WAY TO NATION'S CAPITAL

A goodly crowd gathered at the Southern Pacific Station last evening to do honor to the mortal remains of the Nation's late chief, as the special train bound for Washington passed through here on its way east by way of the Dumbarton cut-off. By the time the train arrived the tracks were lined on both sides with sorrowing citizens and a nervous depression, a feeling of personal loss was expressed by more than one.

The train was a long Pullman type special, the front car filled with floral offerings of rare beauty. The remains of the President were in the last car of the train, on which the shades were drawn. The special halted momentarily here before switching to the Dumbarton track, and then passed on, to continue its mournful trip across the continent.

At Washington the President's body will be met with due military honors and conducted to the capitol building where it will repose in state until it is moved to Marion, Ohio, the President's home town, where it will be interred. The officials of the State of Ohio have requested that the body be laid in state at the Ohio capitol, before it is interred.

Following the news that the president was recovering and had spent the best day since he was taken sick, the report of his death came as a shock to the nation at 7:30 p. m. Thursday night. The first reports of the death of the president were received by radio immediately after he had passed away and announcement of the fact was made in the Sequoia theatre here and in all the public meetings throughout the country. The president's death is said to have been caused by cerebral apoplexy.

The death of the President startled his official party as much as the nation, following a day when his condition had been pronounced the best of any time since his illness Sunday.

At 7 p. m. Thursday detectives suddenly hurried from the President's room and sought Dr. Joel T. Boone, physician. Dr. Sawyer was in attendance at the time. The main group of the Presidential party was in the dining room of the hotel and scattered over the city, rejoicing at the 5 o'clock bulletin which had given the impression that Mr. Harding was on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Harding and the two nurses Miss Ruth Powderly and Miss Saunders, were in the room at the Dauser, where when uttering without the President, a slight shudder passed through his frame, he collapsed and all recognized that the end had come. A stroke of apoplexy was the cause of his death.

Within a few moments all of the President's official party had been summoned. Dr. Sawyer had seen newspaper a short time before the President died and had then confirmed his earlier statements that Mr. Harding had had the best day since his illness began.

Sawyer had announced, in fact, that the President's convalescence had definitely begun.

Time alone will reveal the influence of the Washington conference on international relations.

Harding sought by the method to guarantee the United States relief from taxes needed to reconstruct a huge navy and bring to business a long period of security from war, looking years ahead to peaceful expansion, prosperity and steady employment of labor.

President Harding was born November 2, 1885, at Corsica, Ohio. His father was Dr. George T. Harding, a country physician. Years before his great-grandfather, of Scotch ancestry, had come westward from Pennsylvania in an ox-cart to seek a home for his family in Ohio.

The president-to-be worked first as a printer's devil on the "Caledonia Argus." His "entrance to politics" took place in the Garfield campaign in 1880, when he played a tenor horn in a torchlight procession.

The year 1882 found Harding in Marion, Ohio, with a bachelor of science degree from Ohio Central College, where he had distinguished himself chiefly as editor of the school newspaper.

Harding went in for law, insurance and then newspaper publishing. He purchased the Marion Star, returning from the Chicago Republican convention, where he saw Blaine nominated. Harding found The Star in the hands of the sheriff.

Although a standpat Republican, Harding became a reporter on the Mirror, a Democrat newspaper, but because he insisted on wearing a Blaine hat during the campaign he lost his job.

He also taught school for a time and played a horn in the prize band of Marion. The Star eventually drifted back into his hands. Today the newspaper is a prosperous business widely quoted and of a large circulation.

In 1899 Harding was elected to the state senate. He served two terms, and in 1905 he became lieutenant governor. Harding had begun at this time to be a political influence even in the face of such politicians as Hanna, McKinley and Foraker, who were practically in control of the Ohio Republican party.

His first political defeat occurred in 1910, when he was a candidate for governor. Four years later he was elected to the United States Senate on November 4, 1914, for a six-year term. In 1915 he was the "ham-mo-ner" at the national Republican convention, having made the keynote speech as temporary chairman.

During Harding's career in the Senate he was influential in councils which formulated party policies. He served on eight committees, including the foreign relations and commerce. While he introduced no bills of national importance, he was regarded as a conservative senator, a political standpatter, who had "a wealth of common sense and nothing of a demagogue."

Harding was a strong opponent of the "watchful waiting" policy in Mexican affairs and the note writing of President Wilson to Germany. When President Wilson said America entered the war to make the world safe for democracy, Harding declared the United States should not deem herself called upon to reorganize the old world.

In the rejection of the League of Nations Harding felt America made no surrender "of our hope and ambition for an association of nations to promote world peace." He condemned this league and demanded the continued normal development of international law as the basis of control of international relations.

President Harding married Miss Florence Kling of Marion, Ohio, July 8, 1881. He was a Baptist by religion.

SMALL ABALONES COST TWO JAPS $100 EACH

County Game Warden Jack Burke assisted by his young son, Jack, Jr., succeeded in rounding up sixteen Japanese on the San Pedro road, near Pedro Mountain, last Tuesday. The Japs had been catching abalones on the San Mateo county coast, and an investigation disclosed the fact that two machines contained undersized shell fish. The owners of the two cars were, therefore, arrested by the game warden and brought before Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin who assessed each of the two $100. The Japs arrested were N. Oizuka of 917-A Irving street, San Francisco, and J. Nakamura of 999 Washington street, San Francisco.

MANY PREMIUMS OFFERED PUREBRED STOCK AT FAIR

Over thirty-five thousand dollars is offered in livestock premiums at the California State Fair in Sacramento, September 1 to 9. This represents the fattest premium list that was ever offered in livestock at a state fair west of Chicago.

One of the direct results of these generous purses has been to attract to California's big state show the greatest number and variety of cattle, horses, swine, sheep and goats ever gathered here, according to Chas. W. Paine, secretary of the fair.

All of the leading breeders in beef and dairy cattle are expected to be in the show with their prize purebred stock. The same is true as to swine, sheep and goats.

By way of contrast Secretary Paine was presented last week by the Redding Free Press an advertisement of the California State Fair in Sept. 1899—that was twenty-four years ago. The premium list of the 1899 fair totaled $10,000 for livestock, while the purses hung up for the racing events that year aggregated $40,000.

This year, as already stated, the total in livestock premiums will be over $35,000 and the total amount of purses for the race meeting about $15,000. It will be seen from this that the livestock industry of California has gradually forced ahead of horse breeding and racing events. Yet, the latter has lost none of its old time prestige as a real sport. Its popularity will continue.

All cattle exhibited at the fair must be accompanied by a certificate of health signed by an official of the division of animal industry, California department of agriculture, the federal bureau of industry or an ap-

A NATION MOURNS

The attention of the whole world was centered on San Francisco this week because of the illness of President Harding, and the prayers of all of the people of this land and of the countries beyond the seas were sent up to the Mercy seat above for the recovery of our great president.

And now the Chief is dead, and a nation is wrapped in mourning for the loss of its leader, a loss that is felt by every class and division of the nation. President Harding was a man, respected alike by those who agreed with him and by those whose opinions were different from his; for whether one agreed with him or not, no one could doubt his sincerity. The convictions he expressed were the honest convictions of an honest man, and as such received the respect, not of this country alone, but of the world.

The speech which the president had prepared for the people of San Francisco was given to the press and it is a simple declaration of the great aims of the man. He felt that the United States because it is the greatest nation in the world has a responsibility that does not end in our own country. He believed that disputes should be settled before they lead to war. He wanted this country to lead in every way that was for the good of the world and the upbuilding of humanity.

He made a good economical, wise leader. He reduced our national debt without crippling any branch of the government.

President Harding was a great president. And while we join in the sorrow for the loss of our leader, yet even in sadness we must rejoice that President Harding has lived. And we feel that the country is better for having had at its helm a man who throughout his official life has stood upon the square, just and upright, and though his spirit has passed to that bourn from whence no traveler returns, yet his influence is alive in the country, and the high ideals of President Harding will help to guide the nation for times yet to come.

ANNEXATION

The San Francisco papers have given a great amount of publicity to the idea of annexing a portion of San Mateo County to San Francisco as outlined by the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce last week.

While we are not directly concerned in the proposition we believe that it is a matter to which our brethren in the north end should give careful study before consenting to the move.

San Francisco is naturally anxious to secure such a rich section. While there is yet much room for expansion in our neighboring municipality in the Twin Peak and Forest Hill section there is a desire on the part of the administration to have still further areas into which the city may grow.

Not only is the territory desired but San Francisco would like to have a greater bonding capacity. If the territory considered were annexed at its real worth practically a hundred million valuation would be added to the assessment roll of San Francisco. San Mateo county assesses from 25 per cent to 40 per cent of the value of realty while San Francisco puts on a full 100 per cent assessment.

We can see that there are many reasons why people who make their livings in the city should have a desire to be a political part of San Francisco. We believe though that they are better off in San Mateo county. That is a matter, however, which they must settle for themselves.

Personally, we believe, that San Mateo county is the best little county in the whole wide world. We are sentimental on the subject. We were born and bred here and we are sorry that there is any movement which would disrupt its political entity.

INCORPORATION

Our neighbor on the south, Menlo Park, has had growing pains for a considerable length of time. As a purely residential section, where beautiful homes were on every hand, the people were happy in the knowledge that they had one of the finest places in the country. Then a great war came on, and the government picked Menlo Park as the place with the most ideal climate in the world and put a great military encampment there. At times there were over forty thousand soldiers in training there. Business sprang up and people came to visit their boys at the camp.

Then the war ended, the camp was abandoned and those who had come for business moved away. But they couldn't forget the pleasant days and the glorious nights so on one pretext or another they moved back and Menlo has been increasing in numbers ever since.

Because of the increase in size there has grown a desire in the hearts and minds of some of the people the thought that they would like to manage their own local affairs. There are a number of the home owners of Menlo, however, who believe that well-enough should be left alone. They do not want to be incorporated. They have let it be known that they will combat any attempt to change the present form of government. They admit that the proponents of incorporation have many talking points but they are convinced that Menlo Park is better off now than it would be as an incorporated municipality.

The matter will soon be brought before the supervisors for action and we may look for some interesting meetings of that body while the matter is pending.

In the meantime a number of the residents of Atherton have decided that if there is any virtue in incorporation they want to be counted in so a committee is at work there and it may develop into a race as to which of our sister communities to the south shall first blossom into cityhood.

G. C. GILMAN RESIDENCE AT WOODSIDE DESTROYED

The home of G. C. Gilman at Woodside was wholly destroyed by fire Monday morning with a loss estimated at $6000. The blaze is said to have been caused by defective wiring in the house.

Members of the volunteer fire brigade at Woodside waged an ineffective battle against the flames. The greater portion of furnishings in the home were removed to safety. The local fire department extinguished the last of the fire, but arrived too late to save the home.

BUILDING ACTIVE IN REDWOOD

The building of homes in Redwood City is an industry, which besides giving employment to hundreds of artisans, is supplying homes for the rapidly increasing number of new residents, who are attracted to the town by its unsurpassed living advantages and its lining the streets and avenues of neat, homey, well appointed little cottages, which impart to a town that air of prosperous comfort, and civic beauty, which no amount of stately office and business buildings can give. Not only are the new residents constructing homes for themselves in this cottage paradise, but the old-timers in town, those who by earnest work and hard labor, have done their full share to make Redwood City the best place to live on the peninsula, are, after their years of hard toll, building new and beautiful homes in the city of their choice where they may spend the fall of their lives in rest and contentment.

Building Inspector Drathman reports a month of great activity in the building permit division of his office, permits being issued for a large number of costly and beautiful houses. In the last week a permit was issued to L. C. Kreiger for the construction of a home on Avenue del Ora, while permits were issued to O. Olsen, G. W. Knapp, Earl Higgins, and E. W. Magruder for the construction of garages.

MANY LICENSES ISSUED HERE

While the issuance of marriage license in the office of the county clerk of this county fell far short of the record of $9 set for the month of June, yet Cupid does not appear to have lost his accuracy of marksmanship entirely during the month of July, as in that time there were 70 licenses issued for this county. The licenses issued this week are as follows:

REPORT SHOWS BIG BUSINESS IN LOCAL JUSTICE COURT

Fines and fees of more than $17,000 have been collected in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin of this city during the past four years and the first half of the present year, according to a report compiled this week.

With a total of 35 cases this year, the court collected $4800.50. The total for the half year almost equals that of the entire business of last year and has been reached without the aid of the regular county squad of traffic officers, active in years past.

Of the fines this year, $2200 has been exclusive of traffic and game violations, while $1370 has been turned over to the State from fines for game law violations and $25.50 has been gathered from violators of motor vehicle laws. Court fees have amounted to $140 for the present year, the report shows.

Figures for past years are given as follows: $547 for 1919; $3219.50 for 1920; $3492.50 for 1921 and $5280 for 1922.

A good many lose in the race of life because curiosity causes them to stop and look back to see how the others are coming along.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

The meeting called to be held on Monday evening last to discuss the incorporation of Menlo Park drew the largest gathering ever seen in the little village. Over four hundred citizens crowded Native Sons hall. The proletariat elbowing the aristocrat; the millionaire mingling with his less fortunate neighbor; all met on a common level to discuss and argue a question of home government.

George Walsh called the gathering to order in a brief speech in which he said that the meeting was under the auspices of the Menlo Park Incorporation Club that had secured two able speakers—Norman E. Malcolm, attorney for the Municipalities of Palo Alto and Mountain View and W. J. Locke, secretary of the League of California Municipalities. Mr. Walsh invited all to ask any questions of the speakers. He then dwelt at some length upon the benefits and advantages incorporation would bring. Mr. Locke was introduced and in a very forcible speech outlined in detail the good that would be derived from incorporation. There would be community interest, not now existing, the sanitary, lighting and fire district, now functioning separately would centralize and the money paid out in various ways by these districts would defray all the expenses of the proposed new municipality.

With the combined taxes for the three districts totaling 62 cents per $100 valuation, and all property owners in the district now paying also a 50-cent road tax, there would be a saving in tax payments, he said, since the road tax would be eliminated in the incorporated territory, and the tax limit for a municipality of the sixth class is $1 per $100, which is 12 cents less than what is now paid.

Overlapping boundaries by different districts, such as the present system presents, and lack of coordination because of no central legislative body, can cause inefficiency in administration, Locke contended. He said that bonds for improvements usually sold more readily and more advantageously if the territory were incorporated.

The benefits that come from zoning systems and from proper building and plumbing regulations could be enjoyed in Menlo Park if the town were incorporated, he said. Home rule was emphasized as another advantage. "The county supervisors cannot give the proper attention to all the small details of your town problems," he said, "but if the town were incorporated your own board of trustees could see to everything."

Regarding the movement for annexation of parts of San Mateo county to San Francisco, Locke said that if Menlo Park were incorporated the municipality would have to be recognized as having individual rights, if such a movement should gain headway.

Norman Malcolm emphasized many of the points previously made by Locke, and cited the examples of other cities which had made great strides after incorporation. "Menlo Park, with assessable property of $2,500,000, is in better position than Palo Alto was at the time it incorporated," he said, "and look at Palo Alto now."

Malcolm outlined also the procedure necessary in securing incorporation, the successive steps being: First a petition to the county supervisors when full opportunity would be given to submit objections; third, an election called by the supervisors to determine the question of incorporation and at the same time to elect the officers.

After the speech of Mr. Malcolm, Percy Cumberston took the floor and launched into an address when he was reminded by the chair that he was only to ask questions, and not to argue the case of those opposed to incorporation. He asked a few minor questions of no import and sat down.

A. G. C. Hahn brought out the information that the assessed valuation of Redwood City is $2,750,000, while the county's valuation is only $1,850,000. Mr. Hahn inquired if a similar situation would not be had under the proposed municipality. Mr. Locke responded by saying that it could, but it would be up to the trustees to make the change in the valuation. He thought that sufficient funds could be raised from the present valuation of $2,500,000 to cover all the needs of Menlo Park without raising the valuation. It was only recently that Redwood City raised its valuation, he said.

In answer to a question put to him, Locke said that there were 256 incorporated towns in the state, all prosperous and progressive, that if they were dissatisfied they could disincorporate at any time as the laws made this an easy task. Do Palo Alto, Burlingame, San Mateo want to disincorporate?" shouted Malcolm.

Some feeling was shown in the questions asked by the opponents of incorporation. In an effort to checkmate the proponents of incorporation, the people of Atherton proposed to incorporate that locality and have filed a petition with the county clerk, to that effect. The people of Menlo Park have also filed a petition asking that the boundaries be fixed so as to include the sanitary district, a portion of Atherton. The proponents of Atherton incorporation desire to take a very large territory. The boundary will take in the property from Warren School to Solby Lane and from the Middlefield road to University Heights.

Both petitions will be heard simultaneously on Monday, August 20th, when the supervisors will fix the boundary lines of both proposed municipalities and call an election to decide whether the citizens desire to incorporate.

Both factions have secured able counsel and it is likely that the supreme court of the state will finally decide which of the two localities is to be incorporated.

Attorney Charles McEnerney, Grand director of the Native Sons of the Golden West, officially visited Menlo Park Thursday evening. The Grand officer paid a neat tribute to the progressiveness of the parlor and the number of its members. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

The mortal remains of Harry B. Morey were laid to rest in Holy Cross cemetery last Monday following a requiem mass celebrated in the Church of the Nativity by Father F. O'Kelley. A large number of friends and acquaintances followed the body of the beloved pioneer to their last resting place. Never was there such a large crowd at the Church of the Nativity as appeared on this sad occasion to pay the last tribute of respect to one who was loved in life and honored in death. Old friends came from far and near to be present and gaze for the last time upon the face of one who had often brought sunshine and happiness to the community in which he had resided so long. The grave was covered with these beautiful emblems of love, and after a brief prayer all tearfully withdrew leaving the deceased to sleep the quiet sleep of death in the shadows of his beloved home until the Resurrection morn, when he will arise again stronger, and as cheerful and with the same happy smile as in life.

Harry Morey was a genial, jovial gentleman who brought sunshine and happiness to a wide circle of friends. At his approach gloom and sorrow fled; the pessimist slunk away, the fault finder disappeared, they could not withstand the brilliant rays of cheerfulness an optimism of Harry Morey. Harry enjoyed life, he loved the trees, the flowers, the streams and all things beautiful—the gracious gifts of Divine Providence, whom he served faithfully and well. He looked upon the pleasant side of life believing that all things were made for man's happiness and pleasure. He took joy out of all these things and transmitted that joy to others, bringing cheer and comfort to many a sad heart. His was a sunny, bright and happy disposition. His smiling salutation, witty greetings and words of encouragement and gladness made him friends. All were glad to meet him. He will be missed for no one can fill his place. There were but few men of this type and it is to be regretted that there are not more such men to make the world better, happier, to dispense the clouds and darkness and let in the sun's bright rays to places addended by sorrow and disappointment. Long will Mr. Morey's memory remain fresh and green with those who knew and loved him, and numerous will be the prayers offered to the Heavenly Father for his safe journey to the land beyond where he will enjoy a pleasant place amid joyous scenes.

CARD OF THANKS

Whether it is advisable to be up early depends upon whether you are the bird or the worm.

It's strange how the neighbor boys who was always trying to ruin our own little angel usually turns out to be a prominent citizen whose specialty is giving good advice to the young.

Bunko artists don't try to sell gold bricks to the farmers nowadays. They find a better market with the New York and Chicago bankers.

RUNNYMEDE NOTES

The young people announce a modern dancing party for this Saturday evening in the school auditorium on Donahue street. Music to be furnished by a Redwood City orchestra and on next Wednesday evening, the 8th of August, the Runnymede Dancing Club will give an old fashioned dance, music to be furnished by a San Francisco orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. John Grimes have charge of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Strawn and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Haggert spent the day, Sunday, at Santa Cruz and Monterey.

NEWS OF WOODSIDE

This vicinity suffered from the effects of three fires during the last week. On Monday at noon the house at the Gilman ranch on the Canyada ranch was burned to the ground. The fire department of Redwood City made a gallant attempt to be of service, but the frame dwelling, dry as tinder from the hot sun of the preceding days, blazed like a brush pile, and the destruction was complete before the fire-engine could arrive. The next evening, the Woodruff Inn, over the summit of the La Honda grade, succumbed to a blaze that started in the chimney, presumably from a defective chimney. The fire-fighting equipment was not sufficient for the occasion and only a small part of the furniture was saved. On Tuesday night a fire started in the forest area of the Bear Gulch Water Company's watershed but was soon put under control.

Lee Beck, who heretofore has had charge of the local meat market for Neuman Bros., has decided to try it alone. He has bought out the plant and equipment of Ole Johnson and will conduct a market at Johnson's old place, just at the top of the Woodside grade, and in the same location where more recently has been conducted the Woodside Tea Room.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mighall and party motored to Santa Cruz on Thursday, where the men fished, the women swam and the children built castles in the sand.

Mrs. William Langley and three daughters have returned from La Honda where they have spent the greater part of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Latham McMillan gave a dinner party at their place here on Tuesday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Welch, Mr. and Mrs. August Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roth.

Mrs. Nicodemus and her mother, Mrs. Jennie Eilers, have gone to
